In addition to all of the above our new internet connection, The Web, has been installed. This is thanks to the tireless, and often thankless, effort put in by Norman Clausen. How you did not give up on us, Norman, with all our queries and moans during the 'baby stages' we really don't know. You are very special and we, the sales staff and the residents, say a very big THANK YOU.

We would like to express our concern for our far away clients whose homes are on the market and who are having a hard time trying to sell while being washed away by heavy rains. We are sure that everything will fall into place, their homes will be sold and they will be able to go ahead with their plans to relocate to the Manor. We, in the Western Cape, have also been made to suffer but in a different way with unbearable heatwaves and, on occasion, strong enough winds to almost blow us away. Nothing is the same anymore anywhere in the world.

As previously mentioned, there are many residents who take such great pride in their gardens that it makes it a pleasure for us to walk around with potential clients so please keep up the good work as it is greatly appreciated. With the beautiful Helderberg Mountain looking down on us we all need to compete to the best of our ability.

The Helderberg Mountains from Helderberg Manor
